

Environmental and Chemical Consulting and Project Management

Entech provides specialised consulting and project management support in the areas of environmental science and chemistry. This service is aimed specifically at interpreting and applying environmental and chemical information to meet our clients' objectives.

The range of services provided is based around the broad areas of:

- Chemical analysis interpretation and application
- Mineralogical characterisation

- Chemical immobilisation assessments
- Chemical identification and assessment
- Hydrometallurgical consulting and project management
- Groundwater chemistry consulting
- Chemical speciation consulting
- Contaminant fate consulting
- Regulatory compliance support
- Chemical and hazardous waste management consulting and project management
- Environmental chemistry consulting
- Preparation of contaminant and resource mass balances
- Field XRF analysis
- Expert witness and other legal representation